Reed brings thirty years of in-house, government, and law firm experience in privacy, data security, data breach response, and regulatory defense to help clients solve their most and urgent complex issues. He has represented clients in scores of bet-the-company FTC and state investigations involving privacy and data security issues and routinely helps companies quickly investigate and recover from data breaches and manage their notification obligations. He regularly advises clients on compliance with international and domestic privacy laws and rules, including the FTC Act, the Children’s Online Privacy Protection Act (COPPA) and rule, the Department of Justice Bulk Data Transfer Rule, Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and rules, the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLBA) and rules, the EU/UK General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA) and regulations, other state-level comprehensive privacy laws and rules. He is recognized in Chambers Global and Chambers USA (Band 1-National) and Legal 500 (Hall of Fame). Additionally, Reed counsels clients in developing globally compliant privacy policies and navigating privacy and security issues that arise in mergers, acquisitions, and other transactional matters.

Reed’s clients span an array of industries, including retail, nonprofits and industry coalitions, hospitality, financial services, technology (both software and hardware), advertising and direct marketing, online and mobile publishers, application developers, data aggregators, data centers and cloud computing services, and trade associations.

Early in his career, Reed served as a staff attorney in the FTC’s Bureau of Consumer Protection. In addition to his time in government and private practice, Reed also worked in-house as chief privacy officer and vice president for legislative and regulatory affairs for an online advertising company.
